Albright cafeteria plans get a pass

The Reading Planning Commission has waived further review of Albright College's plans for renovations and additions to its dining hall.

Plans call for the decades-old dining facility to be converted into a food court environment, a design prevalent at many universities.

Additions of 530 and 676 square feet will be for food storage. Most of the food preparation will be done in the open floor plan.

Also, planners learned of a proposed "pocket park" for the northeast corner of Second and Franklin streets.

There are three lots there. Two are owned by ATV Bakery Inc. and the third by the Reading Redevelopment Authority.

Entrepreneurs' Connection, a nonprofit group, would maintain the park as the terms of the lease agreement.

The small park is proposed to have numerous plantings and a steel art sculpture. Solar lighting, meditation benches, chess tables and brick pathways would complete the plan.

Henriette Alban, a member of Entrepreneurs, said the park would serve as a gateway to the city.
